Reds to Start Spring Training at Indiana U. Monday, March 15, With Squad of 31 Players

Thirty-one players are on the 1943 spring training roster of the Cincinnati Reds. These players will report for training at the Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., on Monday, March 15. The training routine this year will be considerably different than in past years because of the elimination of the southern conditioning base. The Cincinnati club was fortunate in obtaining the use of the facilities of Indiana University. The facilities, which include a mammoth field house in which the Reds can work in inclement weather, are believed to be the best for training purposes of any in this part of the country. The Indianapolis club of the American Association will share the Indiana facilities with the Reds.

As they get into playing shape, the Reds will have as one of their physical instructors Bill Miller, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, referred to as the muscle magician. Miller, who has an entirely new theory of conditioning that centers in relaxation and scientific body movement, will not enter into the baseball part of the work, but will confine himself to general conditioning and the teaching of his system, which is applicable to all sports.

The squad this spring is smaller than ordinarily, and, whereas last year the youngest player was 19 and the oldest 37, the youngest is now 22 and the oldest 38. There has been a general upward swing in the ages because the armed forces have taken practically all of the younger men. There is not an unmarried man on the squad.

Oldest player on the roster at present is Estel Crabtree, who also will double as a coach. Youngest is Eddie Lukon, 22. Lukon however, probably will not be with the Reds this year as he is due to be inducted in the army soon, or deferred to remain on his defense job. Tallest and heaviest is Frank McCormick, 6 feet 4 inches and 205 pounds. Shortest is Steve Mesner, 5 feet 9 inches, and John Conway and Linus Frey the lightest, 160 pounds.

Following are the complete records of all members of the Reds:

OPPONENTS' MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES, 1942

In 1940 a total of 17 players each drove in 10 or more runs against the Reds. In 1941 this number was reduced to 14 and in 1942 it dropped to 10 with Johnny Mize of the Giants leading. Mize drove in 19 runs against the Reds in 1942, pounding home four in the final New York-Cincinnati game September 17 to win a hair line decision over Dolf Camilli of the Dodgers as the year's leader against the Reds in the all-important RBI department. Camilli drove in 18, sending in 10 of these in the first three Cincinnati-Brooklyn games of the year in which he hit four home runs.

Others high on the list at driving in runs against the 1942 Reds were: Stan Musial, Cardinals, 15; Babe Young, Giants, 13; Bill Nicholson, Cubs, 13; Mel Ott, Giants, 12; Harry Danning and Willard Marshall, Giants, and Maurice Van Robays, Pirates, 11 each, and Jimmy Brown, Cardinals, 10.

For the three-year period of 1940, '41 and '42, Mize drove in a total of 48 runs against the Reds to 44 for Camilli and 43 for Ott.

Bill Lohrman of the Giants defeated the Reds oftener than any other pitcher in 1942 and Bill Lee of the Cubs pitched more complete games against Cincinnati's team than any other hurler. Lohrman beat the Reds five times and took two defeats from them in return. Larry French of the Dodgers didn't start a game against Cincinnati but was a winning pitcher against the Reds three times. He was the only pitcher to beat them three or more times without taking a defeat in return.

Pitchers achieving four victories over the 1942 Reds were: Claude Passeau and Bill Lee, Cubs; Morton Cooper and John Beazley, Cardinals; and Harry Feldman, Giants. The Reds in turn defeated Lee and Beazley twice each and won once each from Passeau, Cooper and Feldman. French and Whitlow Wyatt of the Dodgers; Howard Krist of the Cardinals and John Lanning of the Pirates each won from the Reds three times with the Reds beating Wyatt, Krist and Lanning once each.

Lee pitched six complete games against the Reds. Lohrman, Passeau and Cooper each pitched five complete games against Cincinnati while Beazley hurled four as did Manuel Salvo and Jim Tobin of the Braves, Curt Davis of the Dodgers and Si Johnson of the Phils. All told opposing pitchers pitched 79 complete games against the Reds in 154 attempts while Cincinnati's 154 starting hurlers pitched 80 complete games.
